Progress Report: International Collaboration and Development of Green Finance in 2018

Research Center for Green Finance Development

Abstract

Much progress has been made for green finance in both market development and international cooperation. As the G20 Presidency in 2018, Argentina decided to continue the discussion of green finance and adopted the three options for scaling up green finance in the G20 Leaders' declaration. The membership of the NGFS has grown to 36 central banks/supervisors within one-and-half years. China-UK Green Finance Taskforce jointly issued the Financial Institutions' Action Plan for Environmental Information Disclosure and the Green Investment Principles (GIP). Much has also been made in capacity building for green finance, e.g. the Global Green Finance Leadership Program (GFLP) initiated by Tsinghua University, in collaboration with the IFC supported SBN and CCICED, has attracted more than 250 members from around 48 countries.
